A FEW WORDS ABOUT OUR KEYNOTE SPEAKER:

John McIntyre is currently majority owner of Anderson Global, the premier large project foundry tooling builder and foundry process Development Company in North America. John also owns the majority of KPMC, the premier foundry tooling company serving the growing Chinese auto and casting markets. John and wife Betsy also own Anderson Express; a WE/WOSB business that focuses on quick turn-around prototypes and low-volume, high performance components. John also offers Vimana Engineering in Bulgaria that features tooling design and process development for counter-pressure cast components.

McIntyre's companies are truly global; with sales and engineering staff located in the USA, Mexico, China and Bulgaria as well as a partner in Europe.

John started his career many years ago working Saturday's in an aluminum foundry. Since then, he has owned multiple foundry tooling companies, a foundry, a plastic injection mold manufacturing company, an engineering company, a cutting tool manufacturing company, and is part of many strategic partnerships.
